

Basketball Coaching Volunteer Project – Castries, St Lucia

Project Overview

As a basketball coach in St Lucia, you'll have the chance to bring the excitement of basketball to children who might otherwise never have the opportunity to play, helping grow the sport in under-resourced communities while fostering teamwork, confidence, and a love for the game. Your coaching sessions will take place in schools and after-school programs in primary and secondary schools, with a focus on inclusivity and fun, getting as many children involved as possible. You'll also have the opportunity to support female participation through our partner charity's girls' empowerment program, coaching their basketball team and helping develop both skills and confidence. As a volunteer, you can choose how much responsibility you take on, running drills, introducing fundamental techniques, leading training sessions, and organising matches and mini tournaments. You will always have the support from our in-country team and local coaches. While the goal isn't to produce international superstars, your impact will be profound, giving young players a sense of belonging, pride in their achievements, and the opportunity to experience basketball in a structured, encouraging, and fun environment that will stay with them for life.
