

Football Coaching Volunteer Project – Port Elizabeth, South Africa

Project Overview

This Football Coaching Volunteer Project in Port Elizabeth gives you the chance to make a real difference in the lives of children from disadvantaged township communities by supporting structured football training and match play. As part of your placement, you'll help organise coaching sessions, matches and football tournaments, provide equipment, and support the personal development of young players who often lack access to safe, organised sport. The focus is on creating an energetic and positive environment where skills can be developed, confidence boosted, and long-lasting community relationships built.

Living in South Africa

Port Elizabeth is a vibrant coastal city known for its beaches, surf spots and wildlife reserves nearby, such as Addo Elephant National Park. During your free time and weekends, you can explore local attractions, participate in social sports leagues, visit parks and enjoy South African culture and landscapes.
