

Hockey Coaching Volunteer Project – Port Elizabeth, South Africa

Project Overview

Hockey in South Africa is full of untapped potential, especially in the townships around Port Elizabeth, where limited funding and equipment make it hard for young players to develop. This volunteer hockey placement gives you the chance to change that by running training clinics, supplying equipment, and creating a fun, structured environment for children to enjoy the game. Whether you're a seasoned coach or simply passionate about hockey, you'll help teach the fundamentals – passing, tackling, positioning and teamwork, while building strong relationships and confidence both on and off the field. Supported by local staff and fellow volunteers, you'll also plan tournaments and team-building activities, giving youngsters a real taste of competitive hockey. From technical short corner plays to early morning beach runs, you will soon develop your own hockey coaching programme, unique to you and your enthusiastic young players. While the focus is on participation and fun, your guidance may uncover future hockey stars, helping inspire the next generation of South African talent and leaving a lasting impact on the community.
