

Netball Coaching & Playing Project – Accra, Ghana

Project Overview

Netball truly is one of Ghana's next up-and-coming sports and there has been a significant increase in the number of players joining the sport in the last few years. There is an increasing passion to play netball in schools, universities and clubs, and this has helped fuel the emergence of a National squad. This placement puts you right at the centre of that momentum, working with passionate players in schools, clubs and universities. You'll deliver fun, structured training sessions, organising matches and clinics, and developing skills through passing, shooting and game awareness drills. Some netball teams are well developed and play regular netball matches whereas others still lack the commitment from a dedicated netball coach. Alongside coaching, you'll have the chance to train and play with local teams, improve your own game, and build powerful cultural connections through sport. Depending on your ability and motivation, you will even have opportunities to train with the national squad! Energetic, rewarding and hugely impactful, this is a netball experience that combines real development, unforgettable friendships and the chance to leave a lasting legacy on and off the court.
