

Volleyball Volunteer Coaching Project – Accra, Ghana

Project Overview

Volleyball is an emerging sport in Ghana with passionate young players but has limited facilities and coaching. As a volunteer coach in Accra, you'll work alongside local sports coaches to deliver structured training sessions which develop skills, and inspire children and young adults – most from disadvantaged backgrounds. Their passion for sport is infectious and their desire to develop is amazing. You do not need lots of experience playing or coaching volleyball to join this project, just a good understanding of the game and some experience playing volleyball at a reasonable level. This placement is all about encouraging young people to play volleyball and giving them access to structured volleyball training sessions. Through your commitment and enthusiasm, you will make a real impact on the volleyball opportunities available in and around the capital, Accra. Experienced coaches may have the opportunity to manage local teams, train fellow coaches, and leave a lasting legacy, all while developing their own coaching skills and immersing themselves in the energy, passion, and team spirit of Ghanaian volleyball. Whilst in Ghana, you will also get the chance to travel and experience its incredibly diverse culture.
